Dear future Host Family,

I'm Giulia, I'm 16 years old.

I love music and even play the electric bass myself; I also play in the school band and I participate in my school theater classes every week. In addition, I'm what one might call a nature fan: walking surrounded by nature truly soothes me, it helps me travel to other imaginary dimensions and free my creativity and I wish I could do it more often. In fact, many of my friends and relatives would say I'm quite ingenious, always up to something, never still for too long, and I like to agree with them. Afterall, if I'm not studying, I'm painting, drawing, sewing, sculpting or wood-carving. I have multiple hobbies and I try to give each a bit of my time, they keep me both relaxed and fulfilled. Although I like doing a lot of things, and would love to implement the list even more, the activity that occupies most of my time is studying. I'm very determined and goal-oriented, if I want something I put my all to achieve it. As a matter of fact, I enjoy studying probably more than most of my peers and I'm extremely interested in many fields, and, therefore, I'm very motivated to research and study.

Generally, in the morning I attend six hours of school from monday to friday, and have afternoon classes that last two hours every tuesday, wednesday and every two mondays, I also attend bass lessons every Friday, scouting on Saturday and use my Sundays, as well as all afternoons, to study, while also leaving some room for friends, family and hobbies. At school I frequent the "Cambridge" course, which will also allow me to get my IGSCE in math and english as well as english certifications.

At home I live with my parents, my older sister, and my two cats, my two parakeets and aquariums, definitely never an empty house. My family also loves gardening so our house is filled with all types of plants and so is our balcony.

Even though my life is busy already, there is still much place for new things to learn, a space I hope will be filled by my host family, their traditions, knowledge, their culture and Swedish culture or anything my host family will want to teach me. On the other hand, I also wish to perhaps influence my host family and show them the wonders of my home country.

Albeit the decision to go on this program wasn't taken lightly, it was helped by my fascination for northern Europe and its history as well as my passion for travelling and seeing the world. Perhaps, my host family might choose me for my determination, or creativity, or maybe independence, or even for my love for animals and nature or perhaps my wide range of interests, maybe combination of all of these, I don't know, but I do know I will fit perfectly and be welcomed.

In a nutshell, my name is Giulia and I can't wait to meet my future family, no matter who they are.

Best regards,
Giulia
