Hi!

I am an exchange student from the Czech Republic and I would like to spend some time in Sweden. I lived in Sweden with my family for four years at the age of five, but then we returned back to Czechia. I have many nice memories and I also used to speak Swedish as well as can be expected of a 5 year old child. But unfortunately, I forgot most of it. The main reason for my choice was therefore, to get to know the country deeper and meet some new people, but mainly to learn Swedish if possible. I attend a high school, which focuses on German language, so I have 7 hours of German every week. Last year I was in Germany for one week as a part of an exchange program, which is organized by my school every year. I like learning new languages and I think I can already communicate pretty well in German after a short time of talking with someone. Therefore I also hope that it could be less difficult to get Swedish. Besides languages, history, geography, biology and arts are my favorite subjects. There is also a great sports area, which belongs to my school, where I also like to spend time so I often play games like football, basketball or frisbee with my friends during the breaks. Besides that our school gives us an opportunity to play ice hockey every week except for the regular PE classes and there's always a big match Teachers vs Students held every year, which is a great action and I want to take part in that once as well. I think I have quite a potential to have good grades in most subjects, but my concentration often gets swept by something another, I would like to do and that looks more fun, so my performance during the tests is sometimes sub par. Despite this, I like my school and I see a great advantage in it, mainly in the opportunity of learning good German.

Besides music and sport, I'm also open to many many different activities such as reading, photographing, writing or drawing. It also happens that I feel like making something, I had to buy otherwise. I made myself a shirt, wallet or a pencil case. Talking about things that I spend much time with, I have to mention the scouts. I attend a scouts group, which I also help to lead. We hike or play various games every second weekend. In winter we go in the mountains skiing for a week. The absolute highlight of the year is our summer camp. When I say camp, I don't mean any type of all inclusive comfort. We basically arrive on a meadow and build up everything we need for living, using only the prepared wood, axes and saws. We live there for five weeks without any electronic devices or an internet connection but with an amazing group of people, which is like my second family.

On the other hand my family is already quite big. I have three older sisters, of which the youngest one is 21 and the oldest is 26. I currently live only with the youngest one and my parents. We have all been to Sweden together many times and all my family members except me and my mom, can still speak the language very well. Therefore I think I can say that we all have a strong relationship to this country. I also hope I'll meet many (or at least a few) great people and do whatever the opportunity will offer to me. In return for that you can expect a bunch of curiosity and much activity from my side. I will always try to be helpful in the household or wherever it will be needed and not to be a nuisance. But main is one: I'm open to everything. I'll be glad for almost every idea from your side because I believe I've not mentioned everything interesting to do for sure. There's never enough experience.

Whatever it will look like, I'll be looking forward to it!

Jilji
