Dear Host Family,

I am Ethan, an Italian guy who wants to have a new experience. I live with my parents, and sometimes we meet the rest of my family who live in Italy for important events like birthdays and Christmas.

I've chosen Sweden as I would like to experience one of the best teaching methods in the world. I play handball, and I will try to find a team that allows me to attend training sessions to improve myself, especially since Sweden is one of the strongest countries in this sport. I also love skiing, and Sweden offers many great opportunities for this sport. I want to go to Sweden to see the Northern Lights, discover a new culture, and, finally, learn a new language.

I recently discovered that I enjoy learning new languages. In fact, this summer, I tried to learn Spanish by myself, and during this period, I am trying to learn a little bit of Swedish. I also plan to learn Romanian so I can talk to my grandmother, because actually I can only understand the language and say a few words. I don't know why I enjoy learning new languages, but perhaps it's because part of my family doesn't speak Italian, so I have always been exposed to different languages and cultures. Regarding my personality, from what you've read, you can tell that I am quite determined. I'm also kind, generous, helpful, sociable, reliable, respectful, patient. I am a quiet person who enjoys having fun with friends and sharing new experiences with others.

I am also pretty good at school. I attend a scientific school where I study a lot of chemistry and biology, which I really enjoy. I chose this school because, after university, I want to become a veterinarian. I love animals and want to raise awareness about them.

I believe I will be a good exchange student because I am someone who analyzes things and can often give precise explanations, which means that others can learn something new about various topics, such as Italian culture.

With you, I want to share new experiences and get to know each other better while talking or doing activities together.

Finally, I want to THANK YOU for this magnificent opportunity you are giving me.

See you soon!!!

Ethan
